Namibia University of Science and Technology

Our mission is to promote national competitiveness by providing multiple opportunities for excellent education, applied research, innovation and service.

It is our goal, through collective effort, in-house publications and research seminars to make the necessary contributions towards applied research to enhance community engagement and attract international partnerships.

What is Tech for Humanity?

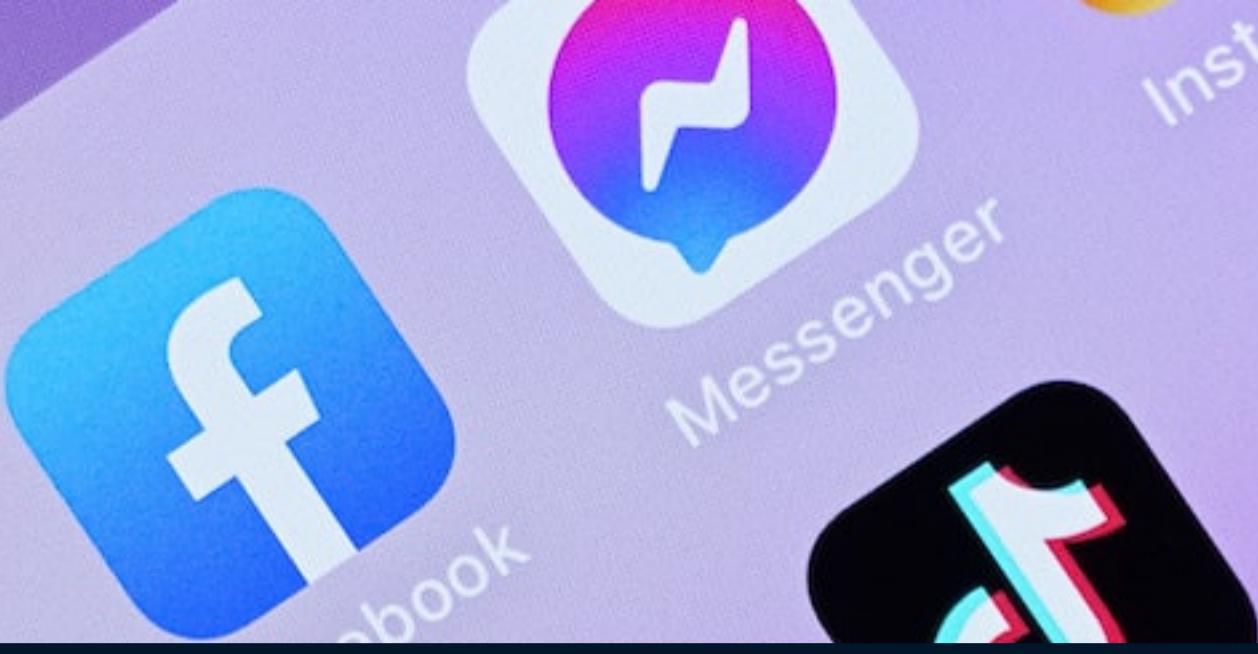

Tech for Humanity is a university-wide effort that emphasizes NUST's role as one of the top human-centered comprehensive universities leading discovery, learning, and engagement to address the societal impact of technological innovation through human-centered approaches.

The initiative foregrounds the role of ethics, empathy, policy, responsible innovation, equity, human-factor design, human identity, creativity, global collaboration, societal values, inclusion and diversity, sustainability, and attention toward the future of work to ensure a viable outlook for human thriving amidst significant innovations in technology that will shape our world in the decades to come.
